DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 36 is objected to because of the following informalities: "a voce message" is a typo-err. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 11, 15, 17-18, 28, 32, and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coiera et al. (5,949,866) in view of Voit (6,075,783).

Regarding claim 1, Coiera discloses a communication system for establish connections to and between internet users, wherein the communication system includes a cellular radio communication network adapted to provide a short message service, a server for facilitating the establishment of a telephony/internet connection between a mobile station and an Internet user, and in that the SMS is used to transfer (fig.1, column 2 line 36, column 4 lines 49-54), comprising: from the mobile station to the server, information identifying the Internet address for the Internet user; and from the server to the mobile station, information relating the connection between the mobile station and the Internet user (column 2 line 36, column 4 line 49 to column 5 line 42).

Art Unit: 2685

However, Coiera does not specifically disclose that the Internet server returns the connecting information sought by the subscriber station.

Voit discloses an Internet phone system in which a call from a calling party to a called party via an Internet server, wherein the calling party sends an address of the called party, in the textual form (short message), to the Internet server for establishing the call, wherein the Internet server converts the address to an IP address and return the IP address to the calling party depending different conditions, whether the called party is available or absent or at other location, in order to connect/disconnect the call to the called party (fig.4, column 9 line 7 to column10 line 67). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have Coiera, modified by Voit to verify the condition of the called party in order to provide an appropriate Internet call service.

Regarding claim 18, this claim is rejected for the same reason as set forth in claim 1.

Regarding claims 11, 15, 28, and 32, in the modified Coiera system, Voit further discloses the server having a database for storing records of subscribers in the HLR and Domain Name server having IP address register wherein the records of subscribers including internet addresses of the subscribers and the calling party sends a Domain Name Address or telephone number to the Internet server for searching the IP address in a look up table for the called party (column 9 line 7 to column 10 line 32, column 12 lines 6-57). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have Coiera, modified by Voit in order to decrease the connection time of a telephone call via the Internet.

Regarding claims 17 and 34, Coiera discloses the system as a GSM system (column 3 lines 49-50).

4. Claims 2-4, and 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coiera et al. (5,949,866) in view of Voit (6,075,783) as applied to claims 1 and 18, respectively, and further in view of Xu et al. (6,151,628).

Regarding claims 2-4 and 19-21, in the modified Coiera system, Coiera further discloses the Internet address for an Internet connected computer terminal (server 1) of the Internet user (e.g., role identifiers) (fig.1, column 2 line 36, column 4 lines 49-60) and the server analyzes the SMS information for identifying the mobile station (column 4 line 54 to column 5 line 15). However, Coiera does not specifically disclose a specific identity as a telephone number of the mobile station, and the server includes analysis means to determine the mobile station.

Xu discloses an Internet communication system in which a specific identity for a mobile station is a telephone number (column 5 line 64 to column 6 line 1) and an Internet server includes an authentication server for analyzing a telephone number of the calling party for accessing or rejecting the Internet access (figs 6-11, column 11 lines 26-64). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to modified the modified Coiera system with the teaching of Xu in order to prevent an illegal user of accessing the system.

5. Claims 14 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coiera et al. (5,949,866) in view of Voit (6,075,783) as applied to claims 11, 28 above, and further in view of Dussell et al. (5,938,721).

Regarding claims 14 and 31, the modified Coiera system, Voit discloses the server sends the IP address to the calling party (column 9 lines 41-45). However, they fail to teach the mobile storing a list of addresses.

Dussell discloses a communication system in which a PDA as a mobile station stores address lists (column 1 lines 11-20). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the modified Coiera system with the teaching of Dussell to recall called party' IP addresses stored in the mobile station in order to reduce time for the call connection as well as easily access without memorizing.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 5-10, 12-13, 16, 22-27, 29-30, and 33 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Regarding claims 5, 12, 16, 22, 29, and 33, the prior art of record fail to disclose the return information from the telephony/Internet server to the mobile subscriber station including the telephony/Internet server's telephone number.

Art Unit: 2685

Regarding claim 6-10, 13, 23-27, 30, these claims are objected as being dependent upon dependent claims that have been objected.

7. Claims 35-38 are allowed.

Regarding claims 35 and 36, the prior art of record fail to disclose a return SMS from the telephony/Internet server to the mobile subscriber station including the telephony/Internet server's telephone, wherein the mobile station uses the server's telephone number to place a call to the server prior to connect to a destination.

Regarding claims 37-38, these claims are allowed as being dependent upon independent claim that has been allowed.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-38 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 2685

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
